OVERVIEW

Port St. Joe Camping Resort is situated between Panama City Beach and Apalachicola, Florida. Located on Saint Joseph Bay, the campground is separated from the Gulf of Mexico by a narrow barrier island and the Saint Joseph Bay. Gulf County is the only panhandle county that boasts a westward-facing sunset. There is easy access to launch a kayak or paddleboard on St Joseph Bay and the Resort offers a host of amenities to make your stay memorable.

If you have come to Florida for deep water fishing, the Gulf of Mexico is only 6 miles away and easily reached by driving Hwy 30A. Once there you will find, plentiful varieties are caught, as well as excellent surf fishing. Fish caught around the park include speckled trout, red drum flounder, and shark. If you are interested in freshwater fishing, the area abounds with plenty of freshwater areas. Scallop harvesting is also an option.

The office is open daily for RV Supplies, drinks, ice, firewood, and snacks to purchase. There are souvenir items available as well.
